Suggested Topics for Discussion
with Top Officials of Government Agencies in a New Administration

Listed below are suggested topics of importance to CIA for discussion with top officials of Government agencies in a new Administration:

1. White House

a. Obtain well before 20 January the clearest possible picture of what current intelligence support is wanted by the White House for the President after reviewing the whole range of Agency capabilities and services.

b. Obtain guidance on the desired Agency contribution to the staffing of the White House Situation Room.

2. Department of State

a. Inform the new Secretary of the Agency's capabilities to provide intelligence support, and obtain guidance regarding support required, including distribution of PDB. (The above question should be clarified with the new heads of all NSC member organizations.)

b. Explain the role of USIB.

3. Department of Defense

a. Inform the new Secretary of the Agency's capabilities to provide intelligence support, and obtain guidance regarding support required (including distribution of PDB).
